

Workplace Giving Information

Thank you for your interest in donation through workplace giving for CRPS Network Australia Inc. It is only with the support of the community, and donations like yours, that we are able to provide vital support to Australia's Complex Regional Pain Syndrome community, provide advocacy, raise awareness to reduce diagnosis times, provide knowledge of prevention techniques and raise money for Australian CRPS research.

What are the benefits of Workplace Giving?

Donating through your workplace is done by making donations from your pre-tax salary. This gives you tax benefits as your taxable salary is reduced – meaning that you make a saving.

It is very low maintenance giving. It's an easy and convenient way to give that is simple to set up.

Workplace giving benefits us as a charity as it not only makes a difference to those living with Complex Regional Pain Syndrome, but because of the nature of regular donations it allows us to plan long term, enabling us to better serve those that we support.

Why Give?

Approximately 35,000 Australians live with CRPS and 18 new people per day contract this insidious disorder, which most often develops after fractures, surgery, strokes or other trauma. This disease causes constant and unrelenting burning pain, swelling, colour changes, body temperature dysfunction and many other debilitating symptoms, that sometimes drives people to take their own lives. As a result, CRPS is often called 'the suicide disease.' CRPS is so painful that many people cannot even tolerate being touched, hugged, having a shower, wearing clothes or even shoes and socks. It affects both adults and children of all ages.

There is no cure for CRPS, there are very few treatment options and those that exist are often inefficient.

As we receive no state or government funding, private donations are crucial for us to create awareness of this disease, which often takes several months or years to be diagnosed. This allows us to provide much needed assistance, education, advocacy and support, in addition to supporting CRPS research for better treatment and a possible cure.

How do I get started?

Anyone, anywhere can do workplace giving.

If your company is listed with an online giving provider such as Good2Give, GoodCompany or Benojo, please let us know. We may be able to sign up for these platforms depending on the registrations fees associated.

If your company is not with a specific provider, or we are not on that system, you can still become a workplace giver. It is as simple as letting your finance or HR team know that you would like to donate some of your pre-tax salary to our charity. We have attached a letter with our account details that you just need to print, fill in and sign and present to your finance team to get set up.

If you (or your finance/HR team) have any questions please email admin@crpsnetworkaustralia.org.au

Thank you for using your payday to support Australians living with a severe, persistent pain condition.
We are so grateful for your support.
